He attended Buckfield school and after living eight years in Michigan he returned to Buckfield and Norway where he has followed the occupation of a farmer. He was a member of Norway Grange.

He married first Julia Churchill of Buckfield, and second Mary Elizabeth Pearson of Norway on June 13, 1885. He is survived by his wife and three children by his first wife: Henrietta Wyers, Emma McLaughlin and Herbert Eugene Hodgdon.

The funeral was from the farm, Saturday, October 23, Rev. R. J. Bruce officiating, clergyman. Mrs. Bruce sang. The bearers were George Dunn, Arthur Robbins, Grant Abbott and Asa Frost, burial in the Pike Hill cemetery.

VISIT TO HAMLIN'S GORE AND WOODSTOCK.

We recently visited Hamlin's Grant or Gore. Mother took us there in her car and we were accompanied by Howard D. Smith, who has taken in and paid out money at the Norway National Bank for more than 40 years. He says he has been behind grates and bars all these years, but he occasionally gets out and this was one of the times.

We forgot to state that his Mrs. was with him. She is a big poker in the D. A. R. which is specifically known as Abigail Whitman Chapter, which holds evening meetings around among the sisters of old times, where they regale themselves with corn cakes and molasses candy and talk of the military valor of their ancestors and occasionally some sweet-scented local gossip of a mild character. Grandmother attends these meetings and we know all about them.

We recast Mrs. H. D. Smith at one time went on to Washington, D. C. in an official capacity to advise with other noted members about placing "markers" around in different parts of the State of Maine, lest we should forget that we were rebelling against our Mother Country.

They charge $8.00 a person by the week and we wonder from our subject which was in regard to a journey to Hamlin's Grant.

This place is now Woodstock and everybody ought to know about it. It was the last place of the Perham's, Laphams, Gallions and Kimbells and some of them remains there yet.

We called on Ed Perham and wife and aunt Ellen at the Dudley cottage, which is some ways up on a high hill overlooking North Elder River Pond and a lot of beautiful scenery. Five different ponds all containing fish can be seen from the top of the hill as well as villages and the distant White Mountains in New Hampshire.

Mrs. J. B. Dudley or Aunt Ellen has entertained a large crop of summer visitors here for many years past, and some two years ago, she induced Edwin R. Perham and wife of Somerville, Mass. to come there and remain the year round.

This season 112 different guests stopped there for a longer or shorter period. They charge $8.00 a person by the week and we guess they break even and little better at the end of the season. They wouldn't if all their visitors ate as did our party. It was past noon, when we arrived, and that was the excuse given for eating so much.

We passed Quimby Perham and other men and teams working on the road near the Irish place and on our return he was the only person remaining on the job and he was soon to quit. A portion of the road is cut down and a bend in the road is being straightened.

Attention was called to a prominent looking boulder nearby and it was said it would make a good "marker" if in the right location. Mr. Perham thought it was in just the geographic location for that purpose. It was in the geographic center of Oxford County and on the State highway and was of suitable dimensions to enroll the names of all the Revolutionary Soldiers and he even offered to stop the grading should it be selected by the D. A. R. for that purpose. If a "marker" is to be erected for this county, no better location could be selected.

We are in favor of it. The land can be obtained at a reasonable price. It is good shade and water nearby. There would be ideal for the purpose. If it was up to us to decide, we should look no further.

We inspected Mr. Perham's farm buildings and cast our eyes over the broad fields and heard of cattle. He has a big, long barn with many modern appliances, running water and electric lights.

We feel we'd like to be a farmer, but somehow we are told we'd have to work harder than we do now. If this is true we demur.

A New Disease in Town.

Norway and South Paris have been infested with a new disease the past few months and since Tuesday night the disease has taken on a violent form. The new disease is "Pony-itis" and is not fully confined to children as it has infested many grownups.

On Tuesday night the pony of the pony contest arrived. It is a handsome little bay pony, 3 years old and wears a russet harness and draws a little rubber tired wagon. Some of the children were so excited they went into hysterics when they saw the pony with the thoughts that possibly they would be the happy owner while some of the older ones debated at length as to who should accompany the driver about town but at last it was thought best to lock the pony up at Stair's stable and the children went peacefully to school. However at noon, Wednesday, Sam took it to South Paris and over Norway, thus settling the debate as to who should ride.

The pony went to the movies Wednesday night and was much admired.

A committee has been chosen to count the votes and include J. Hastings Bean and Albert D. Park of South Paris and Charles S. Akers and W. A. Bicknell of Norway. The contest closes November 1st.

FALL PROTECTIVE WORK AGAINST GIPSY AND BROWN-TAIL MOTHS

Effective Means of Reducing Further Damage to Orchard and Forests by Gypsy and Brown-Tail Moths

In the areas infested by the gypsy moth or the brown-tail moth, much effective work can be done in the fall to reduce the damage that these insects are likely to cause the following year, according to entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture. The caterpillars of the brown-tail moth spin a web in the fall which remains on the tips of the twigs and branches during the winter. These webs should be cut and burned so that injury will not be caused by the caterpillars the following summer. Particular attention should be given to webs of this insect on trees which grow around dwellings or in orchards.

The apple, pear, cherry, oak and willow are among the plants which are favored as food by the brown-tail moth caterpillars. In order to minimize the damage which is likely to result, as much time as possible should be devoted to cutting and burning worthless or seedling apple trees and wild cherry trees and brush. If this is done along the roadways and fences, the appearance of the region will be greatly improved. Care should be taken to protect pine and other coniferous trees, and hickory and ash should not be cut as they are not favored for food either by the caterpillars of the gypsy moth or by those of the brown-tail moth. A general clean-up such as has been mentioned will greatly assist in controlling this insect. The oak is a favored food of the brown-tail moth and of the gypsy moth, and wherever it is possible to eliminate oaks, less annoyance from these pests will be experienced.

In cutting wood in the winter for the purposes of fuel, the farmer would do well to select and cut trees which are favored as food by these insects. In this way he will not only secure the fuel which he desires, but will at the same time decrease the food supply of the pests mentioned. It is needless to say that in cutting wood for fuel, all sickly or diseased trees should be selected so that the disease remains in the healthy and vigorous. Each owner must make the selection for himself, but a great deal can be accomplished by planning the work a little in advance so that the necessary amounts of fuel can be obtained, the preferred food plants of these insects reduced in number, and the condition of the wood not improved. The gypsy moth occurs in the egg stage during the winter, and much valuable work can be done in bringing about its control by treating the egg masses with creosote, applied with a brush. This destroys the eggs so that the next brood of caterpillars is reduced.

For the information of residents of the district infested by the gypsy moth and the brown-tail moth, it should be said that this area has been placed under quarantine by the Federal Horticultural Board and that nursery stock and other plants can not be shipped outside the area unless the trees or plants have been examined by an authorized inspector. The same products, as well as Christmas trees, forest products, and stone and quarry products, can not be shipped outside the area infested by the gypsy moth unless they have been inspected and certified to be free from this insect. The purpose of this quarantine is to prevent these insects from becoming established in other parts of the United States.

Webbs of the brown-tail moth which are present on the trees during the winter, and egg clusters of the gypsy moth which may be on trees, cordwood, lumber, boxes, crates, or other containers which are stored near infested trees, are likely to be shipped long distances. For this reason, all owners should be particularly careful to keep their grounds free from these insects, and, in case shipments of any kind are to be made, to notify the nearest inspector so that there will be no delay in having the examination made in order that the goods may go forward without disappointment either to the shipper or purchaser.

Gypsy moth or brown-tail moth infestation should be treated with special care on grounds from which nursery plant products are to be shipped. The work on these insects which is being carried on by the Department is directed from the branch office of the Bureau of Entomology, 43 Tremont street, Boston, Mass.

Should Raise More.

The Millinocket Times makes the suggestion that Maine should raise its own beef, and really there seems no reason why it shouldn't. Vast areas of land are practically useless in Maine, useless because they have not been put to use. Timber land owners have great patches of land which have been burnt over and never replanted to timber and a good deal of this land is near enough an out-let to make it valuable as farmland. The land question in this State has got to be looked into before we make much progress.

In the first place it would be an admirable idea to make land owners show their title to such land and failing to do so forfeit to the State. Secondly all land that is not put to some use should be taxed at such a rate as would bring it into use. Then there would be no trouble about raising beef, pork and food-stuffs enough to feed a population twenty or thirty times that of the State at the present time, and one would find no worrying about the high cost of living. If the acreage now in disuse was let to people at a reasonable rental the great production from such lands would necessarily lead to a fall in prices and one would not have to pay for the surplus from Boston and other markets, plus high railway rates and various commission merchants' fees.

$2525 for Maine Boys and Girls.

The Maine Corn Packers' association has arranged prizes amounting to $2525 to be given to boys and girls who raise corn for the season of 1916. There are to be prizes in 11 counties and they will range from $1 to $50 according to the value of the work done. Besides these cash prizes there are to be five scholarships for the University of Maine, each entitling the winner to a free year at the University. The conditions of the contest are that each contestant shall plant a quarter of an acre of corn, he shall do all the work from the preparation of the land to the harvesting of the crop and its delivery to the canners. The award of the prize will be considered in the light of the work done on the land, the kind of the crop and ten specimen ears.

SANATORIUM AT HEBRON TRANSFERRED TO STATE.

The present Legislature passed an act entitled "An Act to Provide for the Care and Treatment of Tubercular Persons" by the terms of which the five persons who should acquire by purchase, lease otherwise, Sanatoria in such locations as in the judgment were best adapted for their purposes, and the sum of $75,000 was appropriated for the use of the trustees by said act.

The members and trustees of the Maine State Sanatorium association, believing that this act was the State of Maine is finally and fully committed to the proper care and treatment of sufferers from tuberculosis, have transferred to the State the sanatorium at Hebron, together with all of its equipment and invested funds.

This sanatorium is recognized as one of the most complete and efficient in the country.

The property thus acquired by the State consists of real estate and equipment which cost about $210,000, cash and accounts receivable in the amount of about $10,000, and endowment funds about $80,000, making a total of about $300,000.

In addition to the above the income of the Chamberlain endowment fund of $200,000, also may pass to the State, but this will be determined later.

In payment for the above the State has assumed all current outstanding bills of the institution amounting to about $12,000, and has paid to its trustees the sum of $15,000, which will be used by the trustees only for the purpose of paying sundry legal and moral obligations of the sanatorium, and the balance, if any, will be returned to the State.

The transaction is therefore a virtual gift of this entire property to the State. One of the conditions of the deed conveying the property to the State is as follows:

"To the end that the purposes and hopes of the founders of said sanatorium may be fully met, and in order that the financial aid given to it by its friends and benefactors in the past shall continue to be used for the purposes for which it was given, said State of Maine further agrees that the property thus purchased shall be used in its present location as a sanatorium for the care and treatment of tubercular persons; that only so-called curable cases shall be admitted to it for treatment; that its buildings and grounds shall be maintained and kept up from year to year in the same general condition as heretofore; that the service and treatment accorded to patients shall be actually of the same high standard of efficiency as in the past and that in all respects said institution shall be continued and conducted of the first-class for the care and treatment of tubercular persons."

This condition has been accepted by the State, so that all who have contributed to the sanatorium in the past may now rejoice that this great institution is to continue along the broad lines established by its founders and be in the future as it has been heretofore, "one of the first-class for the care and treatment of sufferers from tuberculosis."

BETHEL.

Award $7,500.

Lillian T. Denmore, the Portland nurse who sued Guy L. Thurston, postmaster at Bethel, for $50,000 for breach of promise, was awarded $7,500 by the jury in the Supreme court, after two hours deliberation.

The whole matter will now go to the Law court, for counsel will file a motion for a new trial on the grounds that the verdict was excessive. Fifty thousand dollars was the sum sought in the suit.

The court declared that the defendant broke his promise to marry and therefore he was liable. Judge Savage said that the effect of this on the plaintiff's feelings, her humiliation and mortification must be considered in arriving at the amount. A woman he said, is entitled to recover whether the defendant is worth a penny or a million. His wealth or lack of it must have nothing to do with the question and the only point to be considered must be the damages done to the plaintiff.

Mr. Thurston has a divorced wife, Elizabeth Thurston. On August 24th of last year the announcement of Mr. and Miss Denmore were sent out to personal friends. Mr. Thurston broke the engagement by letter, September 4th following. He notified her that he intended to marry Bessie Burns, a former sweetheart with whom he had previously broken an engagement.

A delightful evening was spent with Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Gehring at their beautiful home on Broad street, when the members of their households and a half dozen invited guests met to hold a reception in honor of their 27th wedding anniversary. The rooms were decorated with beautiful roses and chrysanthemums. Music and games with a short program were enjoyed and refreshments served.

Middle Interval

Rev. E. H. Stover was here Sunday for preaching services and Sabbath School. A singing band came with him all by auto.

Mrs. Mary Capen has returned from a visit with her daughter in China. The leaves have felt the death of nature and are falling fast. Now Thanksgiving will soon be here. Who will help some unfortunate person to a good dinner or some clothes for winter? Then find employment if any can be found. We need of suffering in the West for want of employment and that good women are the relief helpers.

Farmers are shipping their potatoes and apples.

D. M. Kimball it at home now at the "Mountainside cottage" and in quite good health.

The Limit of Faultfinding.

Jones was one of those men who grumble at everything and everybody. He was once attacked by inflammatory rheumatism and was carefully nursed by his wife, but was very devoted to him in spite of his faultfinding disposition. His suffering caused her to burst into tears sometimes as she sat by his bedside.

One day a friend came in and asked him how he was getting on. "Bad," he exclaimed. "and it's all my wife's fault."

"Is it possible?" asked the friend, in surprise.

"Yes. The doctor told me that humidity was bad for me, and there that woman sits and cries, just to make it moist in the room."

HOW TO PACK APPLES.

The standard apple barrel is 26 inches between heads, diameter of head 17-18 inches, circumference at bulge 64 inches. It holds three bushels.

All the barrels should be carefully "faced." The quality of the apples in the "face" should not mislead the buyer, but should be a fair sample of the contents of the package.

Corrugated circular card board is often used against the top and bottom of the barrel to prevent bruising the fruit. These can be purchased at from one to two cents apiece, according to quality, and are a good investment.

The "face" of the barrel is made by placing a series of circles of apples in the bottom of the empty barrel. The bottom of the barrel forms the top when the package is headed.

When the first circle around the outside is completed, the next circle is placed. This circle being smaller, it will contain several apples less than the larger circle. The "face" is completed by finishing in the same manner.

The face should be firm when finished, with the apples setting firmly against the other. The apples in the face are placed with the stem end next to the barrel head.

The remainder of the barrel is quickly filled by a half bushel basket. "Rack" the barrel after each basket is emptied, so that it may be completely filled.

The barrel should be filled in this manner until within a few inches of the top. The "tail" or crown layer is then placed. It is placed with the stems upward and should project about 1-2 inches above the ends of the staves. The centre should be a little higher.

A corrugated paper cap is now put on next the barrel head. A barrel press is used in forcing the head down. The top hoop is removed and the second hoop slightly raised.

Great care must be used in getting the pack firm. Apples shrink, and if the barrel is not well "racked" while being filled, it will become slack, causing the fruit to bruise.

Apples for storage should be packed and placed in cold storage as soon as possible after picking for best results.

ONLY IN MEMORY.

Prelude.
You ask of me an old farmer,
That I leave for a season my farm.
My hope, my sheep and my cattle,
To mount the chariot behind me,
With one of the mules to drive,
Leaving behind me all care and duties.
Oh, what can you care for my stories
The poorest of doggerel
You have at command, the old masters
With thought and with language sublime;
My lyre is broken, neglected,
My harp lies shattered, unstrung,
And the visions that float in my fancy
Will never no more be sung.

Do you remember that Sabbath in summer,
Our stroll was gay and you did me,
Over the moss covered walk through the orchard
To the yard 'neath the tall elm tree?
We stood by the graves of the loved ones,
The loved ones gone on before,
Through the vale of fate and mystery
To the home on that beautiful shore;
Engraved on the tablets of stone
The years our earth they did stay,
We thought of those that had vanished,
Since the Angel had called them away.

We sat on a knoll in the orchard
On the grass 'neath the tall elm tree,
Watching the changing shadows and sunshine,
As they swayed in the soft summer breeze;
The squirrel, we watched with his apple,
As he chattered and chattered his call,
Then nimbly skipped over the branches
And jumped and hid in the wall;
We gazed over the valley and hillsides,
Looking out on this beautiful scene;
We caught just a glimpse of the autumn,
Stealing softly o'er summer's deep green.

Could I paint you the wondrous beauty
I've seen on these hillsides since then,
I could claim for myself the glory
Of wielding a magical pen.
I've watched o'er this fair summer landscape,
Saw autumn, her glory unfold,
One morn in a warm flush of sunlight
Her garments were crimson and gold.
Time waits not to gaze at their beauty,
Though his pathway with roses be strewn,
Down, down, down the tramp of this tyrant
In dust and mud are they thrown.
Today as I look from my window,
Alas, let the curtain not fall
Desolation from her ruined old castle,
Sits there in her manly fall.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas, it becomes our sad duty in obedience to the will of God to sever our earthly connections with our beloved sister, therefore be it Resolved, that in the death of Elizabeth A. Richardson, Crystal Spring Grange loses a loved and respected member.
Resolved, that over the long period of suffering which was her lot to bear, being ever considerate of the wishes of those ministering to her needs, we should ponder and learn a lesson, remembering that those who are faithful, receive a crown and a home from pain and sorrow.
Resolved, that as a token of respect to her, our charter be draped in mourning thirty days and that we extend our sympathy to her children and family.
Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to each of her children, a copy placed upon our records and a copy sent to the Norway Advertiser for publication.

"PLEASE DON'T PUBLISH ANYTHING ABOUT IT."

Every newspaper is familiar with the request. Sometimes it is made in the form of a demand and accompanied by threats of dire results if acquiescence does not follow.

There are certain things the public ought to keep in mind in the matter of a newspaper's relation to the printing of news.

In the first place, a newspaper owes an obligation to its whole circle of readers to print a fair, comprehensive report of the week's happenings.

It cannot place its responsibility merely to please individuals. That policy involves an injustice to the many and favoritism to the few. Who shall be favored?

Much of the news that is printed unfortunately occasion annoyance and often heartache to somebody. That is the unavoidable incident of the newspaper.

Is there justification for shielding from such consequences the man or woman who has influence, socially or in business, while the many who lack it must be treated without such consideration?

Persons who wish to escape publicity should be careful not to make news, or should count the cost of advertisement to the world as part of the price they must pay for what they have determined upon doing.

There are certain easily defined zones of publicity. The individual who steps out of these zones may count upon getting his name in the newspapers. One is the courts, civil and criminal. The man who goes to law invites advertisement.

Yet many men—sometimes women—appeal to a newspaper to suppress reports of legal proceedings in order that they may escape annoyance. The time to consider immunity is before resort of law.

Departure from the conventionalities of life is another means of entering the publicity zone. Conduct that is off the beaten trail affords news. Those who do go for social observances or tread upon established institutions must not expect to escape print, and should not ask to be saved from such notoriety.

Further, much injustice may be done by the suppression of news. The tongue wagging, uninforming of the real fact, leaves behind times more injury to the innocent than publication of the truth will do to those actually involved.

Often a newspaper is shielding the reputation of a score from the scandal of suspicion when it is telling the truth about one who has incurred the liability of censorship.

But this lesson the public should learn—the way to avoid publicity is to avoid departure from the beaten track; and let this be added to it—if you have diverged into the danger zone the way to obtain considerate treatment is to ask that you are a subject for news, and to take the newspapers into your confidence frankly and fully.

A BOY'S CURIOSITY.

"Mamma, when you sneeze a sneeze where does it go to?"

"It goes to the air, I suppose, dear."

"And when something scares it away and you don't sneeze, where does it go?"

"I don't know, child. Don't bother me."

"Does it go back to where it came from mamma?"

"Oh, I suppose so. Run out and play."

"Then you've got to sneeze it sometime, haven't you?"

"Likely as not."

"If you want to sneeze all the sneezes you had on hand, would you ever sneeze any more, or would there be new sneezes to?"

"Willie I wish you would let me alone."

"What keeps the sneeze from coming out when it starts?"

"Why is it mamma, that some people say 'k-choo' when they sneeze, and some say 'k-choe'?"

"Willie, if you don't—"

"Johnny Dickson says if I'll give him five cents he'll sneeze through his ears."

"No, of course not, dear."

"How do you know he can't?"

"Because—Willie, if you don't stop bothering me I shall certainly—"

"Mamma, what is a sneeze?"

The Hired Man.

Do you remember the hired man? Who used to get up at three o'clock in the morning and start the kitchen fire and go out and feed the horse and throw down the hay to the cattle, and help in the milking.

And eat his fried salt pork and drink his coffee with the rest of the family. And get out in the field at six o'clock in the morning and work the soil.

And get back at one and work until six and then come up and feed the stock again, and do the milking.

And eat his supper and light his pipe and have the rest of his time to himself.

PROTECT THRUSHES.

Investigations Show That They Do a Great Deal of Good and Little Harm to the Farmer.

That thrushes—the group of birds in which are included robins and bluebirds—which are a deal of good and very little do a great deal of harm is the conclusion reached by investigators of the department of agriculture. Although these habits of these birds. Altogether there are within the limits of the United States 11 species of thrushes, five of which are commonly known as robins and bluebirds. The other six include the Townsend's, the wood, the veery, the gray cheek, the olive-back, and the hermit thrush.

The robins and bluebirds nest close to houses, and even the shiest of the other species are content with woodland or swamp. For this reason the thrushes are among the best known and most carefully protected of native American birds, and at times their numbers become so great that it is feared they will do much harm to crops and fruit. The recent investigations of the department, however, show that there is very little ground for this fear. On the other hand, they destroy such a vast number of insects that it is probable that without them many crops would suffer serious damage.

Of all the thrushes, the robin is probably the best known. It has been frequently accused of destroying fruits and berries, but it has now been ascertained that this only occurs in regions that are so thickly settled that there is no wild fruit upon which the robin may subsist. In some years the bird is a great pest, but it is the olive orchards of California, but it is probable that they are driven to the orchards because of the scarcity of native berries at these times. Where a wild bird is available, the birds seem to prefer this to the cultivated varieties.

Like the robin, the bluebird is very domestic, but unlike the robin, it does not prey upon any cultivated product or work any injury whatever to the fruit grower. During the fruit season in fact, it seems, therefore that the common practice of encouraging the bluebird to nest near houses by placing convenient boxes in which it may build its home is thoroughly justified.

A detailed description of the habits of the robins and bluebirds is contained in the Department Bulletin No. 171. Bulletin No. 250, which has just been published, takes up the habits of the six other species of the thrush group which are not quite so well known. These birds are quite as useful as the robin, but they feed principally on insects and grubs, but a great portion of the fruit which they consume is wild berries. Domestic fruits are eaten so sparingly by these species that the damage done is quite negligible.

The bird known as the Townsend's solitaire is noted chiefly for its song, which is said to be at times the finest of any of the thrush family. This thrush, however, confines itself almost entirely to the mountains and gorges of the far West. The wood thrush, on the other hand, is distributed over the eastern part of the United States, and is a frequenter of open groves and bushy pastures. This thrush also is noted for its sweet song, especially in the early evening. It does not nest in gardens or about farm buildings, so that many people who are familiar with its song would not know the bird by sight.

The wood thrush consumes a number of very poisonous beetles and white grubs. The fruit which it eats it usually picks up from the ground instead of taking fresh from the tree. There is therefore no reason why the wood thrush should not be rigidly protected.

PATHOS AND TRAGEDY.

How little the most of us realize the pathos and tragedy in the little things connected with every day life. The life drama that has been rehearsed in our midst during a past week, while it has interested us, has not touched our finer sensibilities, perhaps. Day after day we have sat in the crowded court room and watched the shifting scenes pass in kaleidoscopic review before us.

—We have seen the aged mother trying to condone the crime caused by the waywardness of her daughter, the pathetic grief of the homeless child, just coming into womanhood, burdened with a mother's shame and a father's crime, and the poor, weak unbalanced prisoner who loved, but still destroyed.

We have listened to the laugh and jest, the merry quip and sarcasm of the law. We have laughed with the crowd, with hardly a thought of the bitter sorrow that must fill the hearts of the leading actors in this scene.

A fellow being on trial for his life. A life, which, however humble it might be, has its own little niche in the world's activities. Whether he be responsible or irresponsible, let us be lenient in our views, for we can tell what he would do under similar conditions, and in a like environment.—Colebrook News.

Real Poverty No Inspiration.

To those people who think that poverty is an inspiration to good work and that comfort means sloth we might commend these remarks:—"That there is some connection between the wages a man earns and the length of his life has long been known. That his general health may depend at any particular time on the amount of money he is earning is also a commonplace.

From the standpoint of health, it is not a disadvantage, of course, to be obliged to live largely on simple food; there are a great many people who are digging their graves with their teeth who would be better off if they were not able to afford many of the things they are purchasing. But there is a limit below which people may go. There is a nervousness and worry about the immediate future when wages get below certain points which impairs vigor."

The boy or girl in the slums has every reason to want to rise and get out of the slum, but the very fact of living in the slums makes it difficult to get a start in the right surroundings. Also, living in stifling heat in a noisome tenement in winter and suffering from the cold in summer do not make for good health and an inclination to do hard work.

The lack of proper food does not incline a fellow to seek hard labor and does not qualify him for calm, steady and cool thinking. The absence of decent clothing causes him to lack the "front" that is so necessary in these times in order to get even a hearing when the average fellow goes after a job. Real poverty—no help to anybody.

WHO WILL GAIN POSSESSION OF THE EARTH?

The great war which is now raging in Europe, naturally raises the question of the future mastery of that portion of the world. Should there be a decisive outcome to the struggle, the victorious power would be in a position to dictate terms to Europe; and from the mastery of Europe it would be but a step to the position of world supremacy.

There exists however an impassable barrier in the pathway to this coveted goal of power. The Word of the Almighty has declared that there will never again be upon this earth a successor to imperial Rome. No conqueror will ever arise who will be able to bring the world to his feet. No nation will ever be able to bring all the other nations into subjection.

This is plainly stated in the prophecy of Daniel, chapter two, where, in explaining to the king of Babylon his dream concerning the great image, the prophet Daniel declared: "And whereas thou savest the feet and toes, part of potters' clay and part of iron, the kingdom shall be divided; . . . And whereas thou seest iron mixed with miry clay, they shall cling one to another, so that no power shall separate them; neither shall they be so mixed that they shall not be mixed with clay."

Since the decline and fall of the monarchy of Rome, there have been repeated efforts to weld together into one solid mass the broken fragments of that empire. Clovis, Charlemagne, Napoleon, and Napoleon Bonaparte, emperor of the world; but none of them could cement the iron and clay of the prophetic image. They were struggling against the fiat of heaven. As a writer has forcibly expressed it: "The earth reeled under the fierce charges of these world-empires grasping for power, but the Word of the Almighty stood fast."

Europe remained divided. Yet this nation has the effort to bind the nations together into one by marital alliances been any more successful. The nations families have intermarried very extensively, but the ties thus formed have accomplished nothing toward political unity. The King of England is cousin to the German Kaiser, and the Czar of Russia is a relative also. Yet this relationship does nothing to prevent war. In the past there has been a cleaving of the kingdoms through the marriage of "mingling" of which the prophet said: "There is to be another and a third universal kingdom, foretold in the 'stone' of this prophetic dream, which 'smote' iron and clay, and broke them to pieces." Dan. 2:34. For of the stone it was said by the prophet, that it 'became a great mountain, and filled the whole earth'; and in explanation of this portion of the dream the prophet said: "In the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, which shall never be destroyed; and the kingdom shall not be left to other people, but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand forever." Dan 2:35, 44.

We are living today at a time when all the events pointed out by inspired prophecy as marking the approach of the Kingdom, are with but one or two exceptions, in the past. Almost the last sign of its coming was stated by the Savior in the words: "This gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come." Matt. 24:14. That this work has now almost been accomplished, every person knows who is acquainted with the extent of Christian Missionary effort at the present time.

Very sincerely yours,

MARY D. HAYDEN

THE DREAMER

"Loved and honored for words of beauty,
That give men a taste of Heaven;
And teach them those lives alone are worthy
That to highest thoughts are given."
Long hours they gaze on dreamy heights,
Bathed in dull mist or sheen,
The sun emits its varying light,
All nature smiles between.
The dreamer reads in every stage,
Sweet thoughts in every scene.
While all the common-way grows bright,
Like moving pictures seen.

Oh, wealth of dreamer on Life's way!
Nor loves Ambition's gold;
For better Nature's melody,
Than wealth of kings, untold,
Who hears a song in rippling waves,
Music in every passing breeze,
While psalms from warbler's breast and throat
Sweet music the trees.

Sees from the majestic mountain top,
A prayer unheard and waiting down,
The curtain in by muck and gloom,
Inspired by incense all around.
As the white lily on the lake,
Dips down to kiss the water's pure,
The poet touches the fair soil,
From which it's rootlets spring secure.

Thrice happy is the dreamer's lot!
All dearest impulses among Breathed forth in glad and pleasant rhyme,
Laden with song the yet unborn.
Nature, sweet nature all around,
Basking midst sunning, bird and bee—
Let those enslaved by toil and wealth abound,
Give me the singer's life, and I am free.
JENNIE E. SNOW KIMBALL.

THE MAN WHO DIDN'T SUCCEED

They sing of the men who build the mills
And girdle the earth with steel;
Who fill the hour and wield the power
That moulds the public weal.
Honor to them that in honor do
The work that the world must need,
And yet in chief I hold a brief
For the man who didn't succeed.

'Tis not to excuse the indolent:
No plea for the down and out;
Nor specious rot, condemning what
The leaders are about.
Merely to ask in a casual way
Of those who chance to read
For fairer view, and kinder, too,
Of the man who didn't succeed.

SOUTH PARIS

At eight o'clock they marched to the Odd Fellows' Hall where there were about fifty waiting them making a total of about 250. The lodge was called to order by the Noble Grand. The degree work of Mr. Pleasant Lodge was exemplified in a splendid manner. At intermission there was a short program of selections on the piano player, readings by Luther Hollis and Frank Clark, a solo by Mrs. Murice Noyes which was given in her usual pleasing manner and who responded with a sweet little lullaby. Mrs.
H. E. Wilson accompanied.

At the close of the lodge a social hour was spent with the brothers and sisters of West Paris and Harrison.
The guests came by automobile and had a most delightful evening for the trip.

A "Safety-First" Mineral
Asbestos is a potential life-saver.
We do not all realize, perhaps, that the fire proof theatre curtain is made of asbestos, which is rock matter but nevertheless almost soft and pliable as cotton or woolen fabric. Asbestos has of course many other uses. Its structure make it one of the most useful minerals for many and various structural purposes. It is used in making lumber, roofing, plaster, and stucco. Houses that are built largely of asbestos afford their occupants not only complete protection from fire because it is a "nonconductor," but assures them also the comfort of freedom from extreme heat and cold.

The asbestos-producing industry of the United States is growing. For years we have been the greatest manufacturers and users of asbestos, drawing our raw material from Canada, but now we are getting some excellent fiber in our own country. The most notable feature of the asbestos industry in 1914 was the development of a new field in Arizona, which is furnishing a grade of fiber that compares very favorably with the Canadian.

Author of Novels and Stories.

Among the summer visitors who come to Bridgton early in the season and remain into October, is the author of novels and short stories, Frederick Olin Bartlett, of Cambridge, Mass. With his family Mr. Bartlett arrives early in the spring, and lingers to enjoy the months of September and part of October in the country. They have a most attractive bungalow, facing Highland Lake, on the road to the White Mountains, but so hidden among the trees is the attractive cottage on the heights, that hundreds of automobilists whizz by in the summer

$454.50 for Rumford.

Judge Hanson took the case of the estate of Rumford vs. the town of Upton from the jury's hands and awarded the town of Rumford $454.50. The action was brought to recover $600 for the support of the wife of George R. Campbell who came to Rumford and became a town charge. The question at issue was whether the town of Upton was liable for the support of the wife of George R. Campbell, when he went from Upton to Dallas Plantation in June 1897, abandoned his legal residence in the town of Upton? He claimed that he didn't and the town of Rumford agreed with him.
But the town of Upton claimed that he left Upton with no intention of ever returning.

Answer Your Telephone.

For goodness sake answer your telephone! What do you have a telephone for if not to answer it and talk over it?
Most people make a practice of answering their telephone calls rather promptly, but there are at least a few who have a confirmed habit of waiting till the second or third or fourth ring, or almost any time when it suits their fancy, before answering.

The time seems very long indeed to a person who is waiting on the line for an answer. We ought to think about this a little, trying to put ourselves in the place of a caller. We know how it is when we are trying to get a person who does not seem to care whether or not he answers his instrument.
It will make for one's own satisfaction and profit, as well as that of other people on the line and that of the telephone company itself, to say nothing of the convenience to the operator, if we get around to answer our calls just as promptly as we are conveniently able to do.

Water supply and sewage disposal are most important factors in the comfort of the farm dwelling. Where these permit, however, it is desirable to have the farmhouse stand in an open location facing the southwest, so that sunlight may enter all the rooms during the day. An abundance of ventilation is a necessity, and in most sections of the country the addition of sleeping porches will be found well worth while. The bedrooms should be large enough to allow each person at least 500 cubic feet of space, and preferably 1,000. In the constructions of barns, it may be added, not less than 600 cubic feet should be allowed for each 1,000-pound animal.

RELIEVES THE WORST CASES OF CATARRH

Think "Hyomei the Most Wonderful Treatment for Catarrh Ever Discovered."
Do not try to cure catarrh by using sprays or lotions; it cannot be cured in that manner. The only way in which this too common disease can be fully relieved is through a direct application to the affected parts that will kill the bacteria of catarrh and prevent their growth.

Breathing the air of Hyomei is the only known method of treating catarrh that can really accomplish this. It is the simplest, most pleasant and probably the most reliable treatment for catarrh that has ever been discovered.

The complete Hyomei outfit is inexpensive and consists of an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomei to last several weeks. This will effect instant relief in ordinary cases, but for chronic and deep-seated cases of catarrh, longer use may be necessary, and then an extra bottle of Hyomei can be obtained for a trifling sum. It is not alone the best (it might be called the only) method of treating catarrh, but it is also the most economical.

The Noyes Drug Store has so much confidence in the power of Hyomei to relieve catarrh, that they will for a limited time, sell this medicine under their personal guarantee to refund the money if the purchaser can say that it did not benefit.

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY STORIES.

And every story a good one. They are entertaining, but that is not all you can say about them. You know there is hardly a periodical published that is not full of time-wasting stories, but not a single story in The Youth's Companion is a time waster. Take the stories of C. A. Stephens. It will be hard to learn something useful and yet entertaining.

Some of The Companion stories refresh your knowledge of geography; some tell you the mysteries of chemistry, some reveal the secrets of history and some reveal the secrets of nature.

They cover a wide range. They are chosen with an eye to the possible likings of every member of a Companion family—stories of vigorous action and stirring adventure for boys, stories of college life and domestic life for girls, stories that range all the way from sheer drollery to deep seriousness for men and women. There are no stories quite like those in The Companion.

If you are not familiar with The Companion as it is today, let us send you sample copies and the Forecast for 1916.

New subscribers who send $2.00 for 1916 will receive free a copy of The Companion Home Calendar for 1916, in addition to all the remaining 1915 issues from the time the subscription is received.

THE COUNTRY BANKER.

Gets to Know All About His Patrons, Close Relations in Rural Districts.

If Diogenes were to return to the world today with his lantern and tub, this time in search of the man who knows most about his fellows, would he spend his time on the city street corners? Would he find the man who knows men and human affairs best in knave street or Wall street or Fifth avenue or University avenue?

The bigness of his surrounding has been the city man's undoing. Complexity means departments and departments mean specialists. The ribbon clerk knows nothing about ribbons, one vice-president of a metropolitan bank knows nothing about foreign exchange, and everything about foreign exchange knows the humble president of a railroad.

All about hardhearted bankers. The city man does not meet men. He learns the name of his first neighbor above by reading of his suicide or divorce in a newspaper. Henry Grady cut short a New York career and packed in for rural Georgia, because no one in his flat was able to tell him about the little girl the undertaker had called for. No one in the block knew more than that she was a little girl.

The country doctor, the country parson, the country lawyer, perhaps, lead those who know their fellowmen. But a place must be made also for the country banker. True, he does not see men and women in the tenement moments of domestic life, and in a lesser degree, country doctor, and in a lesser degree, country minister. Like the lawyer, too, he is limited to men for the most part, and only infrequently require the services of a lawyer.

But modern economies have armed the lender with questions, and the lender's business life of the community pastime before him. Business is done on borrowings, and the man as well as the transaction passes under the inquisitive eye of the lender in the country bank. If the farmer learns the cost of machinery, the banker learns the cost of farm machinery, the different grades, the different manufacturers, the uses, the savings as compared with the less modern methods. The astute lender also discovers how much wheat the borrower has, what the production is per acre, what other assets the borrower has, and why it is he is out of ready cash. In time the grover, the lawyer, the doctor, the smith and the station agent will knock at his door with the story of their lives and ambitions.

STORE ICE THIS WINTER.

Ice is Necessary for the Production of First-class Cream on the Farm.

At this time of the year many creameries receive a considerable quantity of cream of poor quality because, for various reasons, patrons fail to cool their cream quickly and thoroughly.

It would be a great aid to the creamery man if every patron cooled his cream with ice. All creammen realize the importance of obtaining good, raw material, and this is an appropriate time to call the attention of the patrons to the necessity of ice for the production of first-class cream. As the quality of cream delivered determines to a certain extent the prices paid for it, a farmer can well afford to provide sufficient ice to enable him to cool his cream properly throughout the summer.

In an article on "Cream grading," it is shown that in New England 500 pounds of ice annually will properly cool the cream from each animal in a 20-cow dairy, but it recommends the storing of 1,000 pounds of ice for each cow, to allow for a shrinkage and for household uses, or 10 tons for a herd of 20 cows. Investigation of conditions in that locality has shown that the average ice house costs less than $50, and that the cost of harvesting and storing ice rarely if ever exceeds $1 a ton. On this basis the cost of sufficient ice to cool the cream from 20 cows would not exceed one-half cent a pound of butter fat, or a total cost of about $15 a year, after allowing for reasonable depreciation on the building.

Ice is harvested at a season when most dairymen have leisure time, so that the actual amount of money expended for this purpose is very small. No producer of milk or cream in sections where natural ice is produced should be without it.

Farmers' Bulletin No. 23, Ice Houses and the Use of Ice on the Dairy Farm, will be sent free to any one upon request.

KING SPLIT LOG DRAG.

Amid all the discussion as to good roads, the "King Drag" is not forgotten and in many municipalities it is still used to much advantage. An exchange prints the following instructions for its use, embodied in eleven rules:

1. Drive the team at a slow walk. 2. Ride on the drag and learn to manage it by changing your position on it. 3. Begin on right hand wheel track and return on other track. 4. Drag after every rain or wet spell, when the surface is moist, but not sticky, just drying. The earth must not stick to the drag. 5. If the road is dry and hard the work will not be satisfactory. 6. The length of the chain helps to regulate the hold the drag takes on the earth. 7. Lengthening the chain is like putting a weight on the drag. But if the chain is too short the drag will not work smoothly, but will lump. 8. To move dirt or cut small weeds lengthen the chain, then hitch the double trees clear over close to the ditch end of drag and stand out on the ditch and in front slab, right over the cutting edge. 9. On a soft spot stand on rear slab, to clear the drag of hay, straw or sod. Step as far from the ditch end of drag as possible. 10. To eliminate wavy stretches or large holes, try changing the angle of the drag at each dragging. In extreme cases build a longer drag. 11. To drop a quantity of earth at one spot step as quickly as possible from the ditch end to the other end of drag.

Should the Churches Neal Drink and Drug?

The Temperance Committee of a great Nation at a recent annual meeting reported, "Gentlemen, the fact remains that there is an alarming 'Cost of the Curse.' Last year consumers in the enormous sum of $2,256,324,447 for intoxicating of $24.17 for each man, woman and child in the Nation.

Ministers, church members and all other persons, church members and all other persons, stupendous figures regarding the "Cost of the Curse," compared with the "many that are lost and few that are saved," is a large bottle for the money. It contains nothing harmful. Its purity is above reproach. It will relieve you, or your money back. It is strange that we sell more of it than of any other combined.

Thousands of clergymen receive and acknowledge scientific medical fact that alcohol and drug continued indulgence and that it can only be cured by the Neal Treatment, that is, hence they and their churches advise, that is, regarding the Neal Treatment to the high-class more and more each day," as well as to the unfortunate man who is rapidly reaching the point beyond all earthly help.

The Neal Treatment acts as an antidote for or Drugs and eliminates it from the system. The State at the splendid Neal Institute, located in the section of Woodfords at 147 Pleasant Avenue, Room 4216. There are similar splendid institutions in principal cities in which thousands are being saved.

We earnestly invite and urge ministers of the persons to answer this advertisement by calling for interesting literature upon the important reduce the "cost of the curse." Address as strict confidence names and addresses of all persons your community whom you know that should be such literature.
